posse at once was sent to the district, fully armed and ordered to capture the man dead or alive, if found.

Mrs. Sprague said this man, whom she recognized from a newspaper picture, was at her house Thursday night and returned against Friday. He was reported by the woman to be driving the same green car in which Whitfield is reported to have escaped from Madison.

COMES STILLMAN CASE

Left, Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman and her youngest baby, Guy, whose paternity her husband, James A. Stillman, millionaire financier, denies. Right, Flo Leeds, former stage beauty, and her child, Jay, whose father, she declares, is Stillman.

NEW YORK—It would seem that the public is never to be relieved of the Stillman case. Newspapers of the sensational order have been carrying stories of the statements that Flo Leeds, who figured as the woman in the case in the divorce case of Mrs. Stillman, has determined that she wants support for herself and her child, Jay, whose father, she declares, is Stillman.

Stillman's lawyers say he settled and spent $50,000 on the woman and that she is now satisfied. Mrs. Stillman now comes to the rescue and says she will adopt the child of Leeds.

Leeds is going to have printed all the letters of Stillman, and this will keep the lovers of sensation digging through a mass for another three weeks.

NO TAX MEASURE
Special Session Seen by Opponents of Compromise on Blaine Proposal.

Madison.—The senate is faced with a deadlock over the tax question that may force the session through several more weeks before any agreement can be reached, as a result of the announcement, with many of them expressing the opinion that a special meeting of the legislature may be necessary.

The announcement by Senator A. E. Carey that five progressive senators had agreed to support a compromise tax bill to be drafted by the finance committee, as a result of the Tuesday night progressive caucus called by Robert M. La Follette, Jr., has brought the upper house into a situation from which compromise is believed, it cannot extricate itself.

See Special Session. Some senators are now of the opinion that no tax bill will come out of the session, while other leading progressives declare the legislature will either pass a revenue measure or stay at work until a majority is left that can put through a revision of the income tax law. Still others, notably those who assert their opposition to the compromise plan, say that a special session is likely.

The other is the election of Sir Stanley Baldwin to be prime minister of Great Britain. Hylan Warns of Railroad Crisis
at Chicago Meet

Chicago.—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, addressing a railroad valuation conference, called by himself and other "progressives" of the United States senate and house, and government, declared today the conference was called to protect the public's interest and to take steps through the Interstate Commerce commission, the courts or elsewhere, to remedy the situation of a country with the valuation law in making valuations of the roads.

The senator added that the conference proposed to organize in such a way "as to be necessary" to accept the foregoing aims.

300 at Conference. More than 300 persons, including the head of virtually every railroad labor union, attended the conference in the city hall, after dinner, and the assembly was held in the city hall.

On the program were Senator La Follette; Mayor Hylan of New York city; Mayor Dwyer of Chicago; Warren S. Stone, grand president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Governor Sweet of Colorado.

Others here for the conference include William Jennings Bryan, who is scheduled to speak Saturday; Paul Manly, in general charge of the meeting; B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees department of the conference; and J. H. Ladd, and Donald R. Richberg, attorney for the shopmen in the litigation in connection with the shopmen's strike last year.

Sen. Great Hurd. Mayor John P. Hylan, in addressing the delegates, declared that if the federal government permits the establishment by an official body of a body of railroad property, which will result in an appraisal of over ten billion dollars in excess of what disinterested broad-appraisers have estimated, the inevitable consequences will be added rates of more than a half billion dollars annually, and a total burden of not less than $1,500,000,000 a year on the people of the country.

WITH THE FARMERS

Farm Bureau Official Information

TWO SHOW ANIMALS COME TO ROCK CO.

Rock County Farm Buys the Daughter of 41st at Marshall Herd Sale.

Two more outstanding Holstein cows were added to the herds of Rock county through purchases made at the dispersal sale of the W. G. Marshall herd near Whitewater on Thursday afternoon. The 56 head offered in the auction ring brought $19,350. An eight-year-old head, The Waukesha county sale on Wednesday averaged $192 indicating that better prices are being obtained for registered dairy cattle.

There was active bidding on the show stock offered and while some of the stock lacked general good type, the cows were high producers and were backed by long time records.

Two of the best type animals lead into the ring came to Rock county. Archie Cullen, superintendent of the county farm purchased Johanna Texal Mercedes, a daughter of the famous head sire, Sir Peter of Grimsby. The heifer was born February 1, 1922 and the dam, Summit Johanna Texal, has a 23.64 pound seven day yield and four year record of 567.07 pounds of butter from 12,471 pounds of milk in 226 days.

And on Show Cows.
"We are not showing any daughters out of the 41st under $1,500," declared the manager of the Marshall herd who made several bids on the heifer. She was sold to the Rock county farm for $390 and was one of the best buys of the sale in the opinion of the breeders. In addition to having royal breeding, the heifer is a promising candidate for show ring honors.

J. A. Craig, added another good one to his growing herd of top-notch animals when he purchased Hengerveld Sarcastic Ormsby, a grand daughter of Sir Ormsby Hengerveld De Kol, age six years. This cow has a record of 572.11 pounds of butter and 11,616 pounds of milk at 2.5 years of age.

The new aged cow is a big animal, with a top-line that is hard to fault and will show up to advantage. The other good show cow, Johanna Sarcastic Ormsby, that was with the Jefferson county show herd and won first at Milwaukee and fifth at the National sale at C. Schoenfeld, Fox Lake, Wis., for $520.

Jefferson county purchased Canary Netherlands John, a show cow paying $300 for this animal. The cow placed second in 1922. It is a debatable question which of these three cows has the best dairy type and probably all three will contest in the show ring this fall.

The top of the sale was $550 paid by J. Cloutier, Fort Atkinson for King Peterie Ormsby Piebe 3rd, with a 227.87 pound dam as a three year old. The four nearest dams of this Piebe sire averaged 145.67 pounds.

The bidding was active, a number of Walworth county buyers in a pool, going up to $900 before quitting. The stock herd sire, King Peterie Ormsby, having ordinary type, brought $260.00. The Craig herd now carries a superior line of females with a son of Ormsby, Sir Peterie Pontiac, Grand sire of the herd. This bull's progeny are showing unusual good promise, the calves being straight with well developed bodies.

The new heifer going to the Rock county farm will add much to the reputation of that herd for daughters of the 41st and this blood is in active demand in the Holstein World.

GUERNSEY CHAMPION

MAKES 654.04 POUNDS
New Adams, Bryn Mawr, Wis., this place is the proud owner of a Guernsey cow which has lately won recognition from the American Guernsey Cattle Club directory. By producing 13,475 pounds of milk and 54.04 pounds of butter fat in a year this Channel Islands representative was given place among Class CC leaders. Marathon county has been known as one of the foremost Guernsey producing sections of the state.

BERRIES, "PINES," NOW AT HEIGHT

"Can Now," Is Advice of Grocers; Other Produce Good.

Two of the best fruits of the entire year—strawberries and pineapples—have now reached the height of their season, with strawberries to remain so for many weeks until the home-grown season is past, while pineapples have already started the down grade. Within the last week, strawberries have taken a big drop and on Saturday will be obtainable in some grocery stores for as low as 18 cents per quart, it is predicted. Wholesale say home grown berries will probably not sell below 50 cents per quart so that the present week and the approaching two or three are the best for canning this fruit, even though the home-grown berries are more desired.

Last week saw pineapples selling in large quantities and sales have kept up pretty well this week, but people are warned not to let another week slip by if they intend to can this fruit. By another week the fruit will be almost gone when it leaves the fields and by the time it gets to the consumer will be too ripe for canning, but delicious for eating and eating fresh.

Cherries Are Lower.

These two fruits occupy the center of attention in markets at present and little else that is new will be seen this week-end. California cherries have dropped in price a little and good ones can be purchased almost anywhere for 50 cents per pound. Other fruits in are those of the past few weeks—peaches, lemons, grapefruit, apples, bananas and lemons. Prices prevalent all winter are still asked. The orange season is now late the year around, while grapefruit will soon be doing for. Lemons will soon come in favor when hot weather arrives, and bananas then are in great demand, too, especially for pies.

Vegetables in Demand.

Begin Motor Care at the Right End

TINKERING and fussing under the hood can't cure the trouble and damage caused by indifference at the filling end of your car.

Poor, sluggish motor fuel, seemingly cheaper at the moment of filling, turns out to be pretty dear economy when you reckon its score in terms of carbon-clogged valves, wastage through over-wet mixture, and the thinning of your lubricating oil to the danger point by drippings of rank kerosene.

Wadhams True Gasoline

is "straight-run", genuine gasoline, chemically innocent of free carbon and kerosene. It vaporizes instantly and explodes — completely — at the faintest spark.

Sensible economy and motor conservation both begin at the gasoline tank — with the consistent use of this real gasoline of old-time goodness.

Its use is motor care of the highest type — prevention of trouble before it can happen.

By a typographical error the name of Dean Ryan was placed on the list of those selling tickets for the City Federation luncheon in place of Miss Norma Ryan, 538 South Main street. It is Miss Ryan who has tickets for sale in that section of the city. Plans for the luncheon are rapidly maturing and a large audience is assured. LUMBER PRICES FAR BELOW 1920

Endorsement of Janesville lumber dealers is added to interesting figures compiled in a wide survey just completed at the direction of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' association board, which indicates that so far as retail lumber prices are concerned prospective home builders have every reason to proceed with assurance and confidence. The figures show that on typical lumber bills from all parts of the country for ordinary dwelling in construction in April, 1920, and April, 1923, the cost of lumber averages 33 1-3 percent less this year.

As one instance of the saving now in lumber over three years ago, it was pointed out that at one Janesville yard, ordinary laths were selling for $25 while today they are only $16.

"Lumber prices remaining stable there is practically no fluctuation whatever," declared S. S. Solie, head of the Solie Lumber company. "Best Time to Build" James R. Piffard, head of the Piffard Lumber company, declared that the statements made that lumber is getting back toward the peak in 1920, is "absolutely opposed to the truth."

"The prices today are at least 20 percent less than in 1920," said Mr. Piffard. "The peak of prices of this season was reached about 60 days ago and has remained stationary. I do not look for any advancement in prices this season as the manufacturers are fighting against an increase regardless of the demand."

for lumber. They have established a policy not to raise their prices, rather preferring to maintain a good fair price. The whole propaganda was started in cities to reach certain labor troubles and in some way, lumber was included along with other building materials.

"I see no better time for building than at present," he said.

TREND OF PRICES.
Interviewed concerning lumber prices, Harold J. Dane, manager of the Janesville office of the Brittingham & Elston Lumber company, referred to account books for various years and it resulted in the following compilation of prices on lumber needed in building a house:

No. 1 Hemlock 1215 1210 1200 1200
No. 1 Trim Pine 52 48 48 48
Clear Yellow Pine 69 110 150 110
Clear Cedar 45 5 10 8.75

"One can see from a comparison of figures for prices in 1920, the peak, and those prevailing today, there is a difference of thirty per cent."

Mr. Dane said: "The greatest part of the increase in prices as compared with 1910 is made by freight rates. They are prohibitive, so there will always be a difference of from 40 to 50 per cent in current prices as compared with 1910. The increase at the mills has been only consistent with the increased cost of production."

Attention, Ladies

We have with us for a few weeks a representative from the Maytag factory who would be glad to demonstrate to you the

MAYTAG GYRAFOAM washer.

This washer performs its work on an entirely different principle than any other washer and does it in much less time and more efficiently than can be accomplished with any other principle of washing. It handles the finest silks or most delicate laces with absolutely no injury to them as nothing touches the clothes but water. The proof of the pudding is the eating," therefore, call us up and we will be glad to give you a machine to try on your own clothes in your own home and let you be the judge.

This wonderful washer simply must be seen in actual operation to be appreciated and we demonstrate it to you with no obligation to you so call us up and arrange for a washing.

ENTRANCE OF BOB INTO TAX BATTLE BRINGS DEADLOCK

clared the attempt of progressives, led by young La Follette, to draft a new measure, had only served to complicate the entire tax situation. "I am confident," Senator Johnson said, "that the administration men had the sense well in hand and could have passed the governor's tax measure. Instead of clarifying the situation, the conference called by La Follette, who does not understand the problem with which we are confronted, only served to muddle it."

Amendment is Seen.

Senator A. E. Garey took much the same position, in announcing that he had not agreed to support a compromise bill. He asserted the governor's bill was not dead and would be amended in such a manner that it could claim enough votes to pass. This attitude is not shared by the finance committee chairman, Senator H. A. Huber, who announces that body is getting ready to work on a new bill. The tax commission is to be consulted for the first time in the drafting of a revenue measure, it developed.

Senator Anton Kuckuk, conservative republican leader on the finance committee, has announced he is not committed to any tax bill. He intimated there may be a fight in the finance committee, which may tie up the problem for some time.

The Mire of Taxation.
There seems to be no way out of the morass in which the legislature finds itself in reference to the tax bills before it and which now have been at least temporarily discarded and a new measure ordered to be framed. When the La Follette caucus finished with the bill of the governor and all the objections had been recorded, there was nothing left of Mr. Blaine's offspring but the title. In the senate the appeal of the senators, representing something more than an experimental excursion or a voyage of discovery into the realms of economics, for officially killing the bill then already dead by caucus agreement, was ignored as a sop to the governor. The playing of politics is the game at Madison. Mr. Blaine says his tax bill redeems his party pledge made in the campaign. The La Follette followers say that may be true but the governor could not pledge members of the legislature to action—the only ones who can do that are the La Follette family.

So we have, here on the 24th of May, no tax bill and are further from a revenue-raising measure than when the session opened in January. The personal property offset is a point of contention. Mr. Blaine wants five-sixths of it discarded. Others ask that it all be abolished. Still others think it should remain. Then there are others who are opposed to the method of advancing the income tax step by step. Some are favoring the Severson sur-tax which others oppose. There seems to be no two who agree on the method of levy or the amount any action will produce. The tax commission is about as well informed as the members since no one on that board has had the temerity to say much of anything after the governor issued his now celebrated ukase against lobbying by Mr. Rosa.

Coming down to facts, the people of the state are not so much concerned about mere technicalities as they are to have a bill formulated and passed and on the statute books. Whatever is done we shall live through it. But the people of the state are growing very much wearied over the politics, big and little, and the personal ambitions of men in the legislature, responsible for the delay and the backing and filling that has been continuous since the legislature went into session. On the other hand it is perfectly apparent that about half the members do not know what they want or whether a tax bill will give revenue at the expense of industry and progress or will provide more than is necessary or not enough.

Another bill has been signed by the governor. There is no sign of writers' cramp yet.

Robin Hood.
To further the fund for the tablets which the club is providing as a memorial to the soldiers of Rock county who went to the World War, the Lions will present to the people of Janesville one of the most entrancing moving pictures of the times. It is Robin Hood. In staging and in point of interest there have been few pictures to equal it. Not one visit alone will suffice to satisfy. The perfection of costume, the lack of any anachronisms in the staging of the scenes, the closeness with which the script follows tradition and legend, the rapidity of action and the very extravagance of numbers involved, make this one of the things no one should miss. If one has heard the De Koven opera, so much the better.

Manager Zania's has made this production here possible and supported by the Lions Club, as it is, for the splendid purpose of the memorial, nothing ought to interfere with capacity houses at the Apollo throughout the presentation of Robin Hood.

The serial story at Madison is becoming a serious story.

Trust the United States.
When it comes to honesty the nations of the world trust the United States above all others. Germany, it is now revealed, has sent millions of gold marks here for investment fearing to trust the banks of Europe and her own people as well. It is a confession of fear that a revolution will some day involve Germany and the present government, and also that all other European nations have not the high sense of honor which actuates the United States in its individual population as well as in governmental affairs.

Europe may have over the attitude we assume of wanting money which we have loaned paid back to us, or that we refuse to be burdened with age-old quarrels of dynasties and peoples in joining the League of Nations, but when it comes to making a nation a trustee of even an implied, if not an express trust, the United States is acceptable above all others.

If we do not have warmer weather the promoters of the Fourth of July celebration will have to provide, winter quarters for the Indians in the Black Hawk pageant.

"Elephants breath" is a new color. Probably owing to its strength.

Before the 18th amendment was passed the consumption of liquor was 150,000,000 gallons a year in the United States. According to figures

Functions of Reserve Banks

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Washington.—Back to Egypt, it is almost back to nature, at least, in the case of the modern Egyptian, in her desperate effort to dress like King Tut and his wife, in wearing shoes that come very near to the primitive.
The sandals of the super-stylish young woman of today may be of lavender kid decorated with gilt bands, but apart from expensiveness of material and the neatness of machine work, they are still closely akin to the oldest and simplest style of footwear known.

It is supposed that back in prehistoric days, some savage who grew weary of stepping on unexpected thorns and stones seized a piece of animal skin and a bit of sinew and laboriously evolved a way of fastening a sole to his foot.
A tanner, writing in the "American Shoemaker," foresees that fashion is leading us moderns to where we shall all be primitive shoemakers like this cave man. Referring to the tendency to cut the uppers of women's slippers in fancy to openwork patterns, he says:
"If they keep on cutting away the uppers of shoes there soon won't be anything left but a sole and straps. Then a person having a mechanical skill gained from fixing up the flapper will go to the ten cent store and get a pair of soles for a dime, a pair of skate straps for another dime, and a package of laces for a nickel. Taking them home, he will tack the straps to the soles and make himself a pair of Egyptian sandals all for a quarter."

"Then," he concludes sadly, "the occupation of shoemaker will be about as active as that of stage coach driver."
The tanner apparently takes it for granted that men as well as women will soon be displaying primitive footwear. His satire shaft might be taken seriously if it were not for the fact that fashion determines the clothing to be worn, and fashion is erratic and fickle. Even if homestead shoes became a craze, the craze would last only a brief season. Then, at least so far as the women are concerned, a reaction would probably set in and the ultra-fashionables would appear in hip boots.

But if we cannot, honestly forecast the sensational prospect of shoes becoming truly and permanently primitive, we can point out one striking fact. This is that for the moment at least, shoes are comparatively sensible, as they have not been in the good old days of the past and as they may not be in the mysterious future.
Shoes with the uppers cut into fantastic patterns and other shoes with scarcely any uppers at all are said by foot experts to afford an efficient ventilation system for hot weather. Most are reasonably low, as they have been low for some time, and the shape of the modern shoe makes some pretense of following the foot. These facts may be taken as a matter of course, but they become really remarkable when you delve into shoe history. In no department of dress has there been more exaggeration and extravagance than in shoes.

In the French revolution when simplicity was the watchword, the shoes of a lady of fashion became so extremely simple that the heels were no thicker than the satin uppers. Two or three of these fragile slippers might be worn out in an ordinary evening's dancing, without the wearer's attempting any endurance tests.
In one year, the Empress Josephine had more than 250 pairs of these impractical pairs of shoes made for herself. It is said that on one occasion she complained to her bonnetier that a pair had become useless in one brief wearing.
The bonnetier looked at the worn out sole and said: "Ah, yes, Your Majesty, I see what has caused it. You must have walked in it."

In an earlier era, women of Venice, and to a less extent those of France and England, increased their height by walking on chopines. These were tall stiletts fastened to the shoes. Women of the upper middle class managed to wobble about on chopines three or four inches high. But court ladies who could command servants or gullants to assist them achieved a greater altitude by walking on chopines twelve inches tall.

As we go further into history footwear is no less extravagant and impractical. Only, in the earlier centuries, it was the men who followed the fashions in shoes. In those days women wore long trailing robes and their shoes were in consequence unimportant.

The men, however, were slaves to fashion and to the whims and ailments of the royalties who ruled the style shows at court. A king is said to have introduced the shoe with the long pointed toe to conceal a deformity of his foot. Each courtier hastened to be in style and in favor, by having pointed toes on his shoes. Gradually the points grew longer and longer, just as styles always tend to become more and more exaggerated, until eventually the most fashionable gentlemen of England and France went about with toes twelve inches long fastened up to their knees by gold chains.
This style was vigorously denounced and laws were enacted in an attempt to limit the length of a shoe. The pointed toe finally ran its course, and another monarch said to have been the victim of gout, introduced a broad toe shoe.
Fashion immediately sought another, freakish extreme. Men went about in shoes as wide as eight inches. Duckbills, these shoes were appropriately called. Some of the wide-toed shoes had patterns cut over across the tops not unlike the modern cut out slippers. The width and elaborateness of the duckbill shoe provoked as much criticism as the curled up toes once had, and finally shoes were restricted to a conservative width by royal proclamation.

In a later, more polished age, Parisian and Venetian gentlemen were found wearing heels six inches high to add to their impressiveness. Pictures of these shoes show the heel starting off at an awkward angle from the shoe, and even then only the extreme toe of the shoe could touch the ground, and the wearer must have carried a cane kept from pitching over head foremost.
Our own American statesmen would doubtless be following complex changes in styles of footwear if long trousers had not become a uniform in the past century. Since then, women alone have been the inspiration of shoe designers and the target of moralists.

The most recent extravagances in footwear have been high heels and shoes too small for the foot. It is not so many years since a "lady" would never admit that she wore a shoe larger than size three. If nature had endowed her with a size six foot, she insisted on encasing it in a shoe half that size, and the apparent length of the shoe was further reduced by French heels.

Why the high Louis heel was discarded by fashion, shoe designers no doubt can explain. Sport and sport clothes for women have been an important factor. At any rate, the average woman no longer tries to coop her feet in shoes too short for them.

obtainable from the Bahamas and other shipping stations of bootleg liquor: only about 2,000,000 gallons have come into the United States in the last year—this the whiskey importation by rum runners. JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.
THE LOST GOLF BALL.
I shot a golf ball in the air,
It fell to earth I know not where.
Although, it cut me to the soul,
I gave it up and lost the hole.
For weeks and weeks I kept in mind
That little ball I couldn't find.
I thought it very strange and queer
That it should wholly disappear.
And then, upon one summer day,
A wealthy man I chanced to play.
He shot a ball into the cup,
And I politely picked it up.
"Oh, little ball," I shouted then,
"At last I have you back again!"
The rich man looked and muttered low:
"I found that ball two weeks ago."
"Two weeks ago?" said I, "Indeed!"
"I didn't know you couldn't read."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

Louis F. Werba, announces that only those girls who are named "Adrienne" will be engaged for the chorus of his new musical comedy "Adrienne."
"Nomenclature," says Mr. Werba, "has a great deal to do with success, and if the girls are named 'Adrienne' they will feel a personal interest in the play."
"Just now we are having an authority in the science of names, and numbers find out the relation of the name 'Adrienne' to chorus girls and their success."

"THE FLOWERS WE BUY IN THE SPRING, TRA LA!"
Spring, magician, roughish, vernal,
Mocking winter's biting blast—
How with this jocund jargon
We proclaim the joys of spring!
With all other bladders bluffed—
"Flippant, saucy, sly and proud,
Spring—the old conceited duffer!
Got the other seasons cowed!"

"In the spring a young man's fancy"
Makes his carnal organ sprint;
Rosenberg and Patrick Clancy
Both alike imbibe the hint.
Yet, fond ardor's flames are cooled
That quotation quail implies
Mind emphatic refutations
When we lump a lassie's eyes!

Gusty males may shrill be blowing,
Toward him searching for a hint,
Falling leaves and winter's snowing
Never in the least can blot
Out the love that's always beating,
Disregarding place or clime.
Come, young sons of springtime, bleating—
Girls, we love you all the time!

Who's Who Today
LORD CURZON.
Lord Curzon looms as an important figure in England's politics as his name is mentioned in connection with the selection of a premier to succeed Bonar Law resigned.

Lord Curzon, who accepted the portfolio of foreign minister on the retirement of Sir Arthur James Balfour, is the son of a clergyman. He was born in 1859, went to Eton and Balliol college, Oxford, and became assistant private secretary to Lord Salisbury when the latter was premier. In 1892, the same year he attempted to get into the house of commons and failed. He was more successful the following year, as conservative member for the Southport division of Lancashire. He resigned to go to India, where he acted as viceroy from 1899 to 1905.

On his return, after the death of his first wife, he dropped out of prominent public life and traveled in central Asia, Afghanistan, the Pamirs, Siam, Indo-China and Korea, and turned out a number of books. But with the resignation of Bonar Law, he was called to the fore as the leader of the house of lords, president of the newly formed air board. Already, in 1911, he had been created Earl Curzon of Kedleston. He was raised to the marquessate recently. His elevation to the Marquisate is quite recent. When Arthur James Balfour retired from the foreign office Curzon took over the reins.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
When we say some one has "nerves" and that it takes "nerves" to do some things we are speaking in a figurative and not a literal way. Just as we do when we say "His heart is in his blood holes," or "His pain lingers."
There is no such thing as working or living or keeping up on "one's nerves" in the common figurative sense of the term, that is expending energy which arises in some mysterious manner from the nervous system, which never in any circumstances produces energy.

There is no such thing as "nervous tension" either. It is quite as accurately described as blood tension or arterial tension or kidney or heart or pancreatic tension. Believing on the "nerves" as the offending structure is simply playing on popular credulity.
There is no such thing as a nerve builder in the shape of medicine or food or any combination of medicine and food. Notwithstanding the fact that three thousand—or is it thirty thousand—physicians have signed testimonials to the effect that will disfigured collage cheese mixed with some inert mineral salt is a nerve builder, this notion is pure humbug.
The only good excuse for the use of the term "nervous breakdown" is as an alibi, and as an alibi it can't be taken seriously. It is a device in law and in seldom fails to approve it. Speaking about judges, it is just about nip and tuck whether the medical profession as a whole is the more glib in matters of business, or the legal profession in matters of medicine and health. Some of the inquiries I get from lawyers and judges are so funny that I dare not print them. The only column I have accused of invention. A shrewd lawyer is egregiously glib when a skillful charlatan takes him in hand. He makes the doctor who backs phony medicine look like a pure humbug.

Since no energy is produced by the nervous system it is quite obvious that the favorite idea of the tired business man that overwork causes his "nervous exhaustion" must be wrong. It is all wrong. And the saddest part of it is that it slanders work. Work is the one thing which

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Our druggist, the only one in the village, laughs at me for asking to insure a pint of rose water and put it in a collapsible tube for me. He says that can be done only by a man with good dental work. The moment of rose water in powder and sells any amount in jars. (B. F. P.)
Answer.—The druggist may not be equipped to dispense cold cream in collapsible tubes, but he can prepare it for himself, according to the formula in his pharmacopoeia. It is all right to dispense it in a jar. The only advantage of the collapsible tube is that it keeps the ointment from contamination by dust or contact with other things.
Pneumonia and Grip.
Is it safe to visit a friend convalescing from pneumonia and still confined to bed? The set of the bed are just getting over the grip. (L. M.)
Answer.—No. Better make the visit later.
Been There?
Almost daily for several years now I have eaten a generous quantity of bran with my breakfast food and it has proven so beneficial to me that the word constipation is practically excluded from my vocabulary. It is nothing of better general health and resistance to—er—respiratory infections. What I want to know is whether it is true that the continued use of bran is liable to cause inflammation of other serious disorders of the bowels. (R. E.)
Answer.—No. It is harmless.
Standing Versus Walking.
Does standing with knees bent much or more fatigue than walking at a moderate pace? (L. A.)
Answer.—No. It does, because there isn't momentary relaxation as in walking.

Q. Is there such a thing as an absolute fluid? J. J. W.

Girl of Ghost Mountain

By J. ALLAN DUNN

Author of "A Man to His Mate," "Rimrock Trail," "The Man Trap."

Copyright by Small, Maynard and Company, and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Mary Burrows, with a giant Swedish girl, Thora, lives on the plateau on top of Ghost Mountain. A young man, Peter Sheridan, a New York lawyer, with tuberculosis, has bought a ranch at Chico, Mexico, and is recovering his health. His inseparable companion is a red Jackson, foreman of the ranch. They rescue a Chinaman, Quong, from the clutches of Hollister, a cattle rustler. Peter finds a way to the ranch on top of the mountain and follows an attempt of the bad man to kill him to the Bonanza mine. On the way he drinks poison mead and goes blind, staggers off and is lost. Mary alone is rescued later by Peter. "He has ridden after her. Tales of marvelous gold in the canyon are told."

"Come down," he cried again. "Gone you for good, speak up!" His voice faltered, whimpered like a child in the dark. Even if she obeyed him, unless he was guided by the sound of her voice he could not find her. So she prayed and believed. Bound as her ankles were, she could not do more than wriggle from the niche to the floor and this she determined not to do. Her silence and his own impotence preyed on him to wild fury and he snatched out his gun.

"Think you've got the best of me, do you?" he yelled and fired to right and left. The bullets spent themselves against the walls. One entered the hollow where she flattened and she felt the top of her head battered upon her body. The narrow rift was filled with the acid gases of the exploded powder. That mingled with a rusty odor and, down from the top of the cave, entered a mass of bats, making for the entrance, flapping about Hollister, clinging to him like moths to a sweetened light. He thought them off in a panic and, as they crowded down, fled from the cave.

She heard him stumble down the slope, thought that he felt, heard him cursing as he seemed to be trying to find his way back. She prayed that he might not do so. Nor did he, but shuffled off, direction lost.

Silence came. The mouth of the cave darkened, the fire flared and died, while she crouched, hardly daring to breathe.

With the ending of the major suspense and the faculty of coordination came fully back to her. She breathed freely, despite the gag in her mouth, she thought clearly. She had tugged vainly through the afternoon at her bonds, made with leather thongs taken from Hollister's saddle, craftily moistened before using. They refused to loosen though she had chafed her wrists raw and lacerated her gums trying to bite through the seasoned stuff of rawhide. The thongs were so wrapped about her wrists that she could barely touch the knots in the handkerchiefs tied at the back of her neck, knotted so closely that her aching jaws seemed dislocated, and she could form no idea of what twist to work at. Often she had thought she only tightened the ligatures.

Now she made fresh effort. The horror of Hollister possibly finding his way back to the cave and finding her there was a vivid one. She could fancy him groping along the face of the cliffs until he found the opening. This and the steadily increasing chill of the night spurred her to fresh efforts. By an inspiration that had been lacking to her tired, scared brain, she crooked her legs, coiling them close to her slender body, squinting in the niche, head bowed to avoid his roof.
And she found that she could slip her bound hands down towards her feet over her knees, far enough to clutch at the niche knots. The were stubborn. The shrunken leather was almost as tough as metal and the fastenings were both intricate and saken into each other in the drying process. For hours, with intervals where she lay back exhausted, wet with the perspiration of her efforts that, drying chilled her to the bone in the cold temperature, she worked until her muscles were sore and bleeding, her nails torn and broken.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Prunes—In preparing prunes for the table it is well to remember that all the moisture originally contained in them has been taken from them in the drying process which they undergo and must be restored if one wishes to have them delicious and tempting. The prunes, however, lose none of its flavor. To do this, only the water has been taken from it and must be restored artificially. This can only be done by soaking for a long time. After thoroughly washing them, cover with cold water and allow to soak at least 24 hours. Slew for 10 minutes. Sweeten to taste.

Lamb Stew—Cut up the lamb into small pieces (after removing all the fat), say about two inches. Wash it well and put it over the fire with just enough cold water to cover it well, and let it head gradually. It should stew gently until it is partly done, then add a thin slice of salt pork, one (small) onion sliced up fine, some pepper and salt if needed, two or three raw potatoes cut up into thin pieces, two carrots sliced, peas when in season. Cover it closely and stew until the meat is tender. Thicken broth with a little flour or cornstarch moistened with milk.

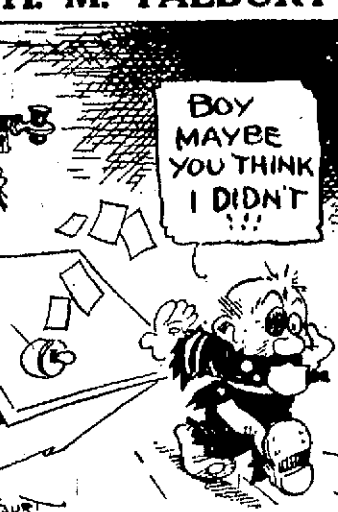

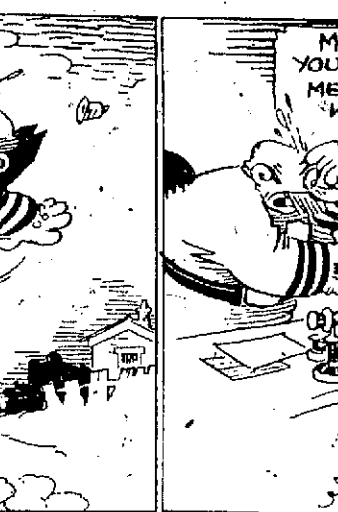

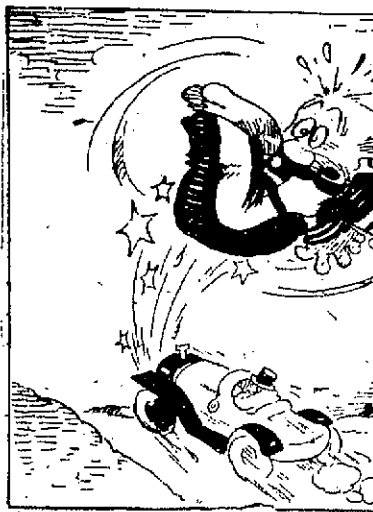

Fruit salad—Chop apples and raisins together with a little celery, mix with mayonnaise and heap in center of a plate, garnish with crisp lettuce leaves.

Combination de Luxe—Dark part: Mint milk, half cup sugar, square chocolate; cook to boiling point, stirring in one tablespoon of cornstarch, dissolved; stand aside to cool.
Yellow part: Two eggs well beaten, one plain milk, half cup of sugar, one teaspoon vanilla; cook to boiling point, stirring in one tablespoon cornstarch dissolved.

When both are cold, fill half or individual glasses with chocolate, the other half with the yellow, add a tablespoon of whipped cream on top of each part, on top of this a large red cherry.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines.

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

The small booklet, "Care of the Baby," may be had by mail on a self-addressed and stamped envelope and asking for it.

Mrs. B. writes:

"Having read your wonderful advice in the paper for some time, I would like to know about my baby girl. She weighs 15 pounds and is eight months old. I am feeding her entirely on Nestle's food and she is getting along splendid. Should I give her something else as well, and what should it be? It is so hard to give her this all summer as the milk is so hard to keep fresh."

Answer

Won't you send me a self-addressed and stamped envelope and ask for the booklet I have on feeding babies from

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens. I am quite short, but not so terribly fat. It seems so queer to me. I have been following your advice. When I get acquainted with them or see them on the streets they call me. I think it is queer they never care to take me home or make a date with me. I am and they go out every week with some friend.

I am considered a very sweet girl and nice-looking. All the girls think it is funny I don't go out with anyone, but they blame it onto my mother. She doesn't care if I go with fellows. I know many married men who say that I must have a lot of boy friends. I try to be real pleasant to all. Please advise me what to do. I love my girl friends and try to do as much for them as I can and they all seem to like me except one or two.

THOUGHTLESS GIRL.
The reason why I am not popular is that with yourself and not with your mothers. If you were pursued by suitors and she refused to let you have company; it might be her fault. But all she is willing you should have company and no one comes it is ridiculous to blame her.

You spend too much time comparing yourself with other people. Judge them by their bad points and yourself by your good ones. Watch other people by all means, and decide for yourself why certain ones are popular and others are not. You will see that there is reason for popularity—a pleasing personality, a gentleness of manner, beauty, a sympathetic nature, cleverness. Also, there is reason for lack of popularity—conceit, mental laziness, an untidy person, crude manners, silliness, a mean disposition, lack of imagination, selfishness, deceitfulness. I have mentioned only a few good and a few bad points. Try to develop charm and a good character and you will certainly make friends.

Forget about boys for the time being and work other interests. Read more, work harder, learn to be sweeter at home and elsewhere. If you develop the right qualities, your face will grow more beautiful as the years pass. But if you spend your time in self-satisfaction, wondering at the blindness of others for so appreciating you, the message your features will carry will not be winsome.

My answer will probably seem harsh. But not knowing you, I have to look on the dark side of your problem and give all sorts of disagreeable possibilities merely, as suggestions of what might be wrong. Perhaps you are merely young and undeveloped and later you will enjoy greater popularity and give all sorts of disagreeable possibilities merely, as suggestions of what might be wrong.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 15 years of age and am good friends with a boy who stays with his sister. The boy likes me and I like him. There is another girl in this town who is very jealous of me and she won't very well liked. I have often talked to this boy's niece and to him and they both say he does not like the other girl. What would you advise me to do, drop the boy or tell the girl that he does not like her? It is always joking with me, but when he sees her he turns up his nose and won't pay any attention. Do you think he likes her better than me?

JEAN.
The fact that another girl is jealous of you is no reason to give up the friendship of a boy you like. Neither should you go to the girl and tell her that he does not like her. Simply pay no attention to the matter to any one. It is small to make a fuss over another person's jealousy and to do so would make the boy like you less. From all you say he seems to like you better than the other girl.

A HUSBAND'S LETTER
I have had the following letter in my possession for a long time, and have decided to print it to show of Women Readers the point of view of one husband.

"Subscriber" writes:
"You wonder what a man would say on the question of having his wife stay young and attractive and a good comrade."

"My wife, though an excellent housekeeper, keeping the house scrupulously clean and tidy, a good table, and so forth, has not the knack of dressing attractively nor of being entertaining."

"I think that means a whole lot in the happiness of marriage."

"Thinking to arouse interest and thought of appearance, I procured a book on the subject of Personality of Dress, but it was laid away on the shelf; to discuss the matter is to be dismissed with a shrug and a pout, to talk of exercise evokes no response."

The lack of interest, of indifference to appearance may be better understood if I illustrate.

"Last New Year's Eve an invitation was received to a supper, and dance at a club located in the city. Arrangements were made to attend and I expected and hoped my wife would wear a pretty evening gown which I had given her, and which suited her build and color, and had only been worn until it was laid away on the shelf; to discuss the matter is to be dismissed with a shrug and a pout, to talk of exercise evokes no response."

"What do the Women Readers think? This letter interested me because great many of my masculine correspondents think their wives spend too much thought and time on dressing."

American Nurse—"To color light eyebrows you can use a stain made by steeping walnut shells in boiling water until the water turns a deep shade of brown, after which add a tablespoonful of salt to set the color. Apply this liquid with a fine camel's hair brush, taking care not to touch the skin, as this, too, will take up the stain. Such applications will have to be repeated as often as there is need, but the stain is preferable to using a hair dye, as it will not injure the hair."

Annie L. N.—Use a cream or olive oil for nourishing the tissues. Cocoa butter should never be used on the face, as it is too greasy and will clog the pores.

Hopetel—Have a dermatologist remove the mole, including the hairs, and you will be quite safe in having it done.

S.—The sulphur and molasses tonic is made by mixing four of sulphur with enough molasses to form a smooth paste. The time to take it is after the cold weather has gone, as this mixture, or any other blood purifier, will cool the blood.

Saturday—Your Wasteline

PLYMOUTH

Plymouth—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ehringer and children, Mrs. Charles Pierce, Miss Harriet Sanger and Miss Pollard, Janesville, were guests at the William Bunch home Sunday afternoon. A severe wind and hail storm swept this vicinity Saturday afternoon. A tobacco shed on the Arthur Arnold place and a silo on the down Joseph Robery attended the G. A. R. banquet given at the Grand hotel, Janesville, Thursday noon by the Kiwanis club.

Dinner Stories

Young Hushon, at college, found himself rather short of money, and accordingly, he wrote his father the following letter:

"Dear Dad—I am writing for a check rather sooner than I expected, but you see several bills have come in at once—books, laboratory fees, games, subs, etc. Please send it off as soon as possible."

"Your affectionate Son."

The father replied:

"My Dear Son: I received your letter today, and am sending you the check you asked for. I was at college myself, once, you know. With love, DAD."

"J. S.—Is she good looking?"

—Los Angeles Examiner.

Two grocers met by accident in a restaurant, according to London Answers, and the following conversation ensued:

"Know anything about music?"

"No."

"Got any views about the new 'development in art'?"

"I do not."

"Believe you can pick out the next derby winner?"

"I don't."

"Know the true inwardness of the drama?"

"I know nothing about it."

"Fine! Come over to my house some evening and we'll have a pleasant chat together."

REAL CHANCE FOR RECONSTRUCTION IN EUROPE SEEN

type—a practical man who deals directly and sensibly with government affairs as he would with business matters.

Can Aid Germany.

Most all of the problems affecting Europe are business problems. Most everything that touches the policy of the United States government also affects Great Britain. An understanding between two countries helps towards getting agreement with the others. America and Great Britain, working close together, can be of more practical help in solving the reparations tangle and aiding Germany to her feet than any other combination of nations. A plan Prime Minister Baldwin proposes will have a better chance of American co-operation because he proposed it for he has won the confidence of the American government, a fact which is of immense importance to the European situation right now.

Ceilid to Foreign Office.

In this connection there are rumors that Lord Robert Cecil, who has just returned to Great Britain after a successful visit to the United States, may become foreign secretary under Prime Minister Baldwin. Lord Robert won many friends here. But he has always been a particular friend of the United States. It was his skill and diplomacy which managed to keep friendly relations between the department of state and the British foreign office in the difficult days of neutrality, when Lord Robert was in charge of the British blockade policy. It was he who saw the wisdom of cultivating American opinion from the start and his impressions gained in a recent visit will be of incalculable value to him if he is chosen foreign secretary.

Hopes Are Raised.

The atmosphere is distinctly one of raised hopes as a result of the change in prime ministers at London and the significant willingness of world bankers to co-operate for the benefit of a former enemy country.

MORE power to President Veck of the Chicago Cubs. On Wednesday a press dispatch came from New York that Mike McGuire, the worlds light heavyweight champion, and Harry Greb were to meet in Cuba park. It was the first "prey" Veck had heard about it and since he has at least something to say, or used to think he has about the use of the Chicago National league park, he cocked up his eyebrows and inquired: "Says which?" Now there doesn't happen to be a law in Illinois, which is a subtle Chicago, being a law abiding citizen, says that until the Chicago suburb legalizes the game, "it's all off." Should the game be sanctioned in the park, Mr. Veck is a bit leary as to granting permission to the leather pushers.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Festivities Will Mark Opening of City Loop

Janesville's strictly amateur industrial baseball league will start off with a bang Saturday afternoon. Promptly at 1 p. m., led by the Parker Pen boys, all players in spick and span new uniforms, will set out on a parade from the Y. M. C. A. building, proceeding along Milwaukee street to Main street, taking a loop there, and winding up at the Gazette building. They will then disperse to their several diamonds.

In the parade will be members of the city council and of the police department. Officials of the league will be in the line of March.

All managers have been requested to have their teams on hand in time, and in uniform.

The curtain raisers will all start at 2 p. m. Here is the way the teams are lined up:

Fair Grounds, 3 p. m., Parker Pens vs. Rock River Woolen Mills; 3:45 p. m., American Metals vs. Tank Corps.

TY COBB SCORES 1741 RUNS; RECORD

Lanphere Hurls Star, 2 to 1 Game; Trims Plattville

Milton.—In a pitchers' battle between "Pedro" Lanphere and Evans, with the local blond star having slightly the best of the argument, Milton college nosed out Plattville normal here Thursday afternoon, 2 to 1. Lanphere struck out 12 men, walked one and allowed only four hits, while his opponent fanned 12, walked one and allowed five hits.

Three Ball Teams Represent Milton

Milton.—At least three uniformed teams will represent Milton and Milton Junction in baseball this summer. The old Milton Junction Crescents will be in the field as usual, playing Sunday games at Conley's Charley Bluff diamond. A new team, which shows promise of being the strongest of the three, will represent Randolph Kelly post of the American Legion. Coach George Crandall of Milton college is in charge of the legion outfit, which will open the season Sunday afternoon at Maple Creek against the Whitewater legion. The Crescents play the Janesville Tanks at Charley Bluff Sunday. A third team will represent the Burdick Cabin company.

Three Schools Meet in Track Tourney

Whitewater.—Track stars of Milton college, Plattville normal school and Whitewater normal meet here Friday afternoon in the second annual triangular track and field contest. Honors are pointing toward Milton to cop.

Pigeon Shoot at Evansville

Evansville.—The first clay pigeon shoot of the season will take place on the farm west of town Sunday forenoon. Prizes will be given for the best scores.

50-Mile Trials Come on Saturday; Records Promised

Indianapolis.—With motors of racing cars, plying in preparation for the international 500-mile race here next Wednesday fans are busy trying to choose a winner from the maze of stars daily turning their cars.

It is a conjecture at best with so many fast cars and with such daring performers. Never before has there been such speed talk. The small 125 cubic inch piston displacement motors powering racing cars for the first time in American competition have made such fast time in trials that winners are nodding knowing glances, confident a record breaking pace will be maintained.

Bennett Still in Doubles of Big Ten Tennis Tourney

Chicago.—George Bennett of Janesville, playing with the University of Wisconsin team in the western conference tennis tournament here, was eliminated from the singles on Thursday but, paired with Moulding, continues into the second round in the doubles.

Bennett drew Frankenstein of Chicago in the first round of the singles, one of the most promising entrants. He lost the first, 6-1, took the second, 7-5 and lost the third, 6-1. Bennett was the only man in the opening round to extend his man for three sets. In the doubles, Moulding and Bennett defeated Kline and Sanchez of Michigan, 6-3, 9-7.

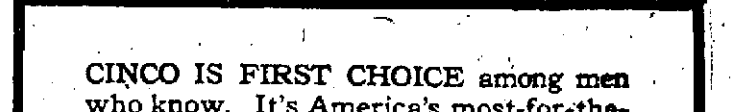

Moulding of Wisconsin beat Fidgeon of Minnesota in the first round of the singles, 6-4, 6-1, but then lost to Swenson of Iowa in the second round, 6-1, 6-2. Kline of Michigan defeated Tredwell of Wisconsin in the second round of the singles, 7-5, 4-6, 7-5.

Goodwill of Illinois, Merkle of Michigan and Wilson of Chicago are making a stiff fight for singles honors. Wilson and Frankenstein of Chicago are looking strong in the doubles. Three Chicago men, three Michigan men and one from Illinois, Iowa and Ohio, are in the running for the singles. Teams from Wisconsin, Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio, Chicago, Illinois and Michigan remain in the battle for the doubles title.

Finals will come on Saturday.

Ty Flashes As of Old

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Detroit.—Tyus Raymond Cobb, famously replete, "The Fearless One" and "The Georgia Peach," is not yet among the bench manager class, despite his 37 years and the thinning hairs on his head. Frequent predictions, first heard when he succeeded Hughie Jennings as manager of the Detroit Tigers two years ago, that he was through as a player, have failed of fulfillment.

It is a different Cobb who guides the destinies of the 1923 Tigers from the player who flashed among the major league constellations in 1905, gaining in brilliancy and renown until in 1911 he became a 420 batter. The speed that gave Cobb a new name, "The Georgia Peach," began in 1915, with a total of 98, is waning, but in its place has come craftiness, and because he had so much speed to lose, he still is a great outfielder, still a dangerous man on the paths.

At last, he is the same "Peach." His eye seems as clear as in his earlier days when he was the bugbear of all pitchers in the league. He continues to meet the ball squarely, and his faculty of driving the ball out of the fielders' seams greater, if anything, this year than ever.

From the start of this season he has had the Tigers among the league leaders. Close followers of the game have seen in Detroit the principal menace to the New York Yankees in this season's race. Cobb's heavy artillery is conceded to be the equal of the New York club's "murderer's row," and his pitching staff, considered the principal weakness of the club, has shown surprisingly well during the first month, the veteran Daves especially appearing near the peak of his form.

Some critics see indications that Cobb may direct his club from the bench soon, in the acquisition of two slugging recruits, Fothergill and Maunsh, both of whom have been used effectively this year, but Cobb smiles and continues to take his stand in centerfield.

Poppy Sale Will Open on Saturday in City's Stores

In Flanders field and other beds across the sea lie 32,000 American fighting men "dead in their youthful prime, never to laugh or love again for taste the summer time. For Death came flying through the air and stopped his flight at the dazed stare, touched his prey and left them there, clay to clay."

These immortal words of Sergeant Joyce Kilmer, penned but a month before he too had his "body stealthily hid in the soil of the land he fought to free," will be the hearts of every former service man of Janesville from Saturday until May 30.

Saturday, at 9 a. m. the annual sale of poppies in memory of the World war dead will start. Sale of the flowers, under the Richard Ellis post of the American legion, will be in charge of Harry Fox, assisted by Ithmar Sioane. The proceeds go toward a fund to help decorate the graves "over there."

Girls will be at stands in all the leading stores of the city each day until the morning of Memorial day. They will also tag people on the streets.

EDGERTON

Edgerton.—A committee of women from the Service Star legion, consisting of Misses L. G. Lutz, Charles Bunker, Earl Jensen, Roy McDonald and T. W. F. are at rest in "Overland" temple. They are: Ralph Amundson, Werner Grief, Alvin Sherman, Rollin Livick, Norman Clarke, Willard Passenden and John O. Johnson.

"Before I took Tanlac I had been managing a chain of shops and through overwork my strength and energy decreased almost to the vanishing point. My appetite was poor and even the little I did eat caused terrible attacks of indigestion and my cheeks were losing their glow of health. "However, four bottles of Tanlac relieved my troubles entirely. I have a ravenous appetite, the healthy glow has returned to my cheeks, and I have the energy of a school-girl. I sleep so well it takes a giant alarm clock to wake me. I'm always ready to praise Tanlac." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 27 million bottles sold.

KIWANIS HONORS VETS OF 1861-5

Thrilling Patriotic Outbursts Follow Talks by Carle and Col. Ely.

Kiwanians honored the fast thinking ranks of these men who fought for the unity of this nation in 1861-65 when they entertained 15 members of the W. H. Sargent post of the G. A. R. at the noon luncheon at the Grand hotel, Thursday. It was the first time in 40 years that the members of the post had been entertained by a civic organization in Janesville.

The meeting resulted in the passage of a resolution offering united support to a movement to enlarge the Grand Army encampment next year. More heart and less head is needed in this country today, State Commander James F. Carle, Janesville, said in delivering an address which brought continual bursts of applause.

"We need more love for the flag," said Commander Carle. "We have too many boishovists, I. W. W.s, grafters and money hogs. We will get out of this country just what we put into it. There is too much selfishness, too few who are willing to make sacrifices for the advancement of this nation."

"There are a great many dead today that don't know it. It's sad to be dead but it's worse to be dead and not buried."

Perpetuate Ideals, Is Plan.

Colonel Frank W. Ely, Chicago, chief of staff of the Sixth Corps Area, introduced by Harold J. Dane, chairman of the program committee, as one who had spent 35 years in the regular army, was the main speaker of the day and voiced the need for activity in spreading the ideals on which this country is founded, inherited by the present generation and which must be carried on and perpetuated.

"In this country today there is the dominant note of intolerance," the speaker said. "We have too many psychopathic poets, hysterical historians, and short and long haired men doing the talking in this country today. That doesn't cause activity but is cause for activity. Unless we exert ourselves to extend the ideals that build America, how in the world are those coming to this country going to absorb these American ideals?"

"How did this nation in less than 500 years rise to the greatest in the world?" the speaker asked. "It didn't just come that way. It was developed by men with strong minds, stout hearts and rugged bodies. The ideals developed are ours to enjoy, to perpetuate and to hand down to posterity."

Heckle Guard Destruction.

"The thing that put us ahead more than anything else is the strict adherence to American ideals. I didn't come here to criticize but I believe there is a certain feeling of regret in the action taken recently in the legislative halls of Wisconsin. I could not help but think that the men who took action against the guard and favored its abolishment will in a few years have passed out of history or into innocuous desuetude while the names of those who served in the Iron Brigade and other famous Wisconsin regiments will blaze more brightly than ever." He was vigorously applauded.

Colonel Ely declared there is only one answer for the propaganda that is going about—education—and urged the establishment of an institution for the dissemination of American ideals. He spoke of the need for schools for all people, that will especially reach those coming here from a foreign country and who will not otherwise develop American thought.

Don't Hope for World Peace.

"To me the idea that the constitution of the United States should not be taught in the schools is incomprehensible."

The veteran army officer took a rap at the theory that machinery has been developed that is so mighty it forbids war.

"That is the worst busted phenomenon I ever saw. There will always be war as long as there is commercial competition and men's passion from which it always results. The losses in the World War were less than those in the Civil War in proportion to the number engaged, because warfare was developed since the civil war which resulted in long distance fighting."

A letter from the father of George and Rex Jacobs to a brother and dated June 8, 1861, was read.

Boasts 4th Celebration.

Sophor Bolles spoke of the present and Nonesuch brothers circus to be given in Janesville July 4, and the necessity of every member of civic organizations lending assistance.

A large flag of the United States covered one wall and on another hung that of the W. H. Sargent Post of the Grand Army.

Dr. Thomas J. Snodgrass led in singing the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Tenting Tonight."

Joseph Weber was elected a delegate to the International convention next week at Atlanta, Ga. in place of William Clinton who will be unable to attend. George Gilman, of the Parker Pen company, will in the future be a member of the Kiwanis club.

The birthdays of Leo Atwood, Rev. Charles Olson and Archie Cullen were observed, and Stephen Bolles won the prize.

Rev. Fr. William Mahoney, Watertown, told several good stories.

The regular use of Resinol Soap is frequently all that is required to overcome such a condition, and produce that whiteness and velvety softness so much to be desired.

If, however, the hands are in very bad condition—if they crack open and smart after being in water—use Resinol Ointment as follows—
Bathe the hands freely with Resinol Soap before retiring. Dry completely. Rub in Resinol Ointment gently but thoroughly and cover with old gloves. In the morning bathe again with Resinol Soap. In most cases a few such treatments produce very satisfactory results.

Ask your druggist for the Resinol Products.

Popular Price Wearing Apparel For Women, Misses and Children

In taking over the store room adjoining us and in opening up this new adventure, we felt that there was a great necessity for a store in Janesville of this character, there not being one here. While we have been contemplating for a long time opening up this kind of a store, it was not until recently that we could find a desirable location for this kind of a Wearing Apparel Shop.

LEVY'S ANNEX will be under the same management as the Golden Eagle, but will be run separately and upon an entirely different basis, inasmuch as The Annex will sell for STRICTLY CASH and CASH ONLY as the low percent of profit placed on this merchandise would not permit us to sell otherwise than for cash.

Plain Facts

Now as to the character of merchandise we intend carrying in the ANNEX. We don't want you to be misled, in other words, we don't want you to feel that everything that we offer here is a Job Lot Conglomeration. Far be it from such as we are opening up with an entirely new $25,000.00 stock of Wearing Apparel. Strictly up-to-the-minute styles and as good as you will find in many main departments in other stores. At a glance you will recognize the Big Difference in Prices as everything in the ANNEX will be offered at a very low price FOR CASH ONLY.
